Extending the Life of your Projector

By Jade Leopoldo

Like all electronic devices projectors have a limited lifespan. Regular maintenance programs and correct operation will help to extend the life and reliability of your projectors' operation, ultimately lowering your total cost of ownership. The following are some hints to consider;

Projector Hours:

In many cases projectors can be left on by accident, this can cause excessive operation and can decrease the lifespan of the projector and its lamp. Many projectors should NOT be run beyond 10 hours in a single instance of use. Solutions such as "Automatic Projector Shutdown" exist to ensure that a projector is switched off even if the operator forgets.

Vent Your Projector:

Ambient room temperature is a key issue which is often overlooked. All projectors have a suggested operating range which should be carefully observed and adhered to. Typically the maximum air temperature is about 35-40 degrees. This means that the air circulating through a projector should not be warmer than this. In addition you should also ensure that you have adequate ventilation around your projector so heat can dissipate. Do not cover the vents on the side or the front of the projector. Store your projector in a cool, dry place. Excessive heat & moisture can cause extreme damage.

Tips to Clean Your Projector Lens:

Our maintenance programs help to extend the life and reliability of your projectors operation. However there are also a number of ways in which you can help to service your own projector too. Begin by blowing dust off the projector lens by using a can of compressed air.
Be careful not to spray the compressed air too close to the projector lens. A safe distance is approximately six to eight inches from the projector lens. You can also clean your projector's lens regularly with a lens cloth. This will guarantee the best image quality and can be purchased at most camera stores.

Filters:

Filters are installed to reduce the amount of dust which enters the projector. However like most air filters dust still manages to get through and overtime this will build up. Clogged filters do not vent heat properly, causing the projector to overheat leading to lamp failure and the need for a replacement bulb. Always use the air filter, operation without it allows the projector to draw in dust, smoke & other particles in the air. It is recommended that filters are cleaned every 3-6 months, depending on frequency of use.

For more information on how you can extend the life of your projector or to
